Noora works as a senior associate mainly focusing on environmental law. She advises both domestic and international clients on matters related to environmental liabilities, planning and zoning, energy-related projects, and in matters related to natural resources and mining. Noora also provides advice on environmental regulatory matters. Noora has gained experience especially on wind power development projects, and she has represented clients, such as energy companies, heavy industry manufacturers, international private equity firms, and commercial banks.

Prior to joining Hannes Snellman, Noora worked as a legal counsel in a law firm and as a trainee at the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry.

Noora is currently on study leave.
